Problem Statement:

In this particular project, we are going to work on the inaugural corpora from the nltk in Python. We will be looking at the following speeches of the Presidents of the United States of America:

President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1941

President John F. Kennedy in 1961

President Richard Nixon in 1973

(Hint: use `.words()`, `.raw()`, `.sent()` for extracting counts)

1.1 Find the number of characters, words, and sentences for the mentioned documents.

Before working on text analysis, 'nltk' library was installed in Jupyter Notebook. Then raw text file of the speeches of the three president was downloaded from the 'inaugural' package. Following images show snippet of the three speeches.

'On each national day of inauguration since 1789, the people have renewed their sense of dedication to the United States.\n\nIn Washington's day the task of the people was to create and weld together a nation.\n\nIn Lincoln's day the task of the people was to preserve that Nation from disruption from within.\n\nIn this day the task of the people is to save that Nation and its institutions from disruption from without.\n\nTo us there has come a time, in the midst of swift happenings, to pause for a moment and take stock -- to recall what our place in history has been, and to rediscover what we are and what we may be. If we do not, we risk the real peril of inaction.\n\nLives of nations are determined not by the count of years, but by the lifetime of the human spirit. The life of a man is three-score years and ten: a little more, a little less. The life of a nation is the fullness of the measure of its will to live.\n\nThere are men who doubt this. There are men who believe that democracy, as a form of Government and a frame of life, is limited or measured by a kind of mystical and artificial fate that, for some unexplained reason, tyranny and slavery have become the surging wave of the future -- and that freedom is an ebbing tide.\n\nBut we Americans know that this is not true.\n\nEight years ago, when the life of this Republic seemed frozen by a fatalistic terror, we proved that this is not true. We were in the midst of shock -- but we acted. We acted quickly, boldly, decisively.\n\nThese later years have been living years -- fruitful years for the people of this democracy. For they have brought to us greater security and, I hope, a better understanding that life's ideals are to be measured in other than material things.\n\nMost vital to our present and our future is this experience of a democracy which successfully survived crisis at home; put away many evil things; built new structures on enduring lines; and, through it all, maintained the fact of its democracy.\n\nFor action has been taken within the three-way framework of the Constitution of the United States. The coordinate branches of the Government continue freely to function. The Bill of Rights remains inviolate. The freedom of elections is wholly maintained. Prophets of the downfall of American democracy have seen their dire predictions come to naught.\n\nDemocracy is not dying.\n\nWe know it because we have seen it revive--and grow.\n\nWe know it cannot die -- because it is built on the unhampered initiative of individual men and women joined together in a common enterprise -- an enterprise undertaken and carried through by the free expression of a free majority.\n\nWe know it because democracy alone, of all forms of government, enlists the full force of men's enlightened will.\n\nWe know it because democracy alone has constructed an unlimi

'Vice President Johnson, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chief Justice, President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, President Truman, reverend clergy, fellow citizens, we observe today not a victory of party, but a celebration of freedom -- symbolizing an end, as well as a beginning -- signifying renewal, as well as change. For I have sworn I before you and Almighty God the same solemn oath our forebears prescribed nearly a century and three quarters ago.\n\nThe world is very different now. For man holds in his mortal hands the power to abolish all forms of human poverty and all forms of human life. And yet the same revolutionary beliefs for which our forebears fought are still at issue around the globe -- the belief that the rights of man come not from the generosity of the state, but from the hand of God.\n\nWe dare not forget today that we are the heirs of that first revolution. Let the word go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans -- born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a hard and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage -- and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this Nation has always been committed, and to which we are committed today at home and around the world.\n\nLet every nation know, whether it wishes us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe, in order to assure the survival and the success of liberty.\n\nThis much we pledge -- and more.\n\nTo those old allies whose cultural and spiritual origins we share, we pledge the loyalty of faithful friends. United, there is little we cannot do in a host of cooperative ventures. Divided, there is little we can do -- for we dare not meet a powerful challenge at odds and split asunder.\n\nTo those new States whom we welcome to the ranks of the free, we pledge our word that one form of colonial control shall not have passed away merely to be replaced by a far more iron tyranny. We shall not always expect to find them supporting our view. But we shall always hope to find them strongly supporting their own freedom -- and to remember that, in the past, those who foolishly sought power by riding the back of the tiger ended up inside.\n\nTo those peoples in the huts and villages across the globe struggling to break the bonds of mass misery, we pledge our best efforts to help them help themselves, for whatever period is required -- not because the Communists may be doing it, not because we seek their votes, but because it is right. If a free society cannot help the many who are poor, it cannot save the few who are rich.\n\nTo our sister Republics south of our border, we offer a special pledge -- to convert our good words into good deeds -- in a new alliance for progress -- to assist free men and free governments in casting off the chains of poverty. But this peaceful revolution of hope cannot become the prey of hostile powers. Let all our neighbors know that we shall join with them to oppose aggression or subversion anywhere in the Americas. And let every other power know that this Hemisphere intends to remain the master of its own house.\n\nTo that world assembly of sovereign states, the United Nations, our last best hope in an age where the instruments of war have far outpaced the instruments of peace, we renew our pledge of support--to prevent it from becoming mere

Image 2: Kennedy's Speech

'Mr. Vice President, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chief Justice, Senator Cook, Mrs. Eisenhower, and my fellow citizens of this great and good country we share together:\n\nWhen we met here four years ago, America was bleak in spirit, depressed by the prospect of seemingly endless war abroad and of destructive conflict at home.\n\nAs we meet here today, we stand on the threshold of a new era of peace in the world.\n\nThe central question before us is: How shall we use that peace? Let us resolve that this era we are about to enter will not be what other postwar periods have so often been: a time of retreat and isolation that leads to stagnation at home and invites new danger abroad.\n\nLet us resolve that this will be what it can become: a time of great responsibilities greatly borne, in which we renew the spirit and the promise of America as we enter our third century as a nation.\n\nThis past year saw far-reaching results from our new policies for peace. By continuing to revitalize our traditional friendships, and by our missions to Peking and to Moscow, we were able to establish the base for a new and more durable pattern of relationships among the nations of the world. Because of America's bold initiatives, 1972 will be long remembered as the year of the greatest progress since the end of World War II toward a lasting peace in the world.\n\nThe peace we seek in the world is not the flimsy peace which is merely an interlude between wars, but a peace which can endure for generations to come.\n\nIt is important that we understand both the necessity and the limitations of America's role in maintaining that peace.\n\nUnless we in America work to preserve the peace, there will be no peace.\n\nUnless we in America work to preserve freedom, there will be no freedom.\n\nBut let us clearly understand the new nature of America's role, as a result of the new policies we have adopted over these past four years.\n\nWe shall respect our treaty commitments.\n\nWe shall support vigorously the principle that no country has the right to impose its will or rule on another by force.\n\nWe shall continue, in this era of negotiation, to work for the limitation of nuclear arms, and to reduce the danger of confrontation between the great powers.\n\nWe shall do our share in defending peace and freedom in the world. But we shall expect others to do their share.\n\nThe time has passed when America will make every other nation's conflict our own, or make every other nation's future our responsibility, or presume to tell the people of other nations how to manage their own affairs.\n\nJust as we respect the right of each nation to determine its own future, we also recognize the responsibility of each nation to secure its own future.\n\nJust as America's role is indispensable in preserving the world's peace, so is each nation's role indispensable in preserving its own peace.\n\nTogether with the rest of the world, let us resolve to move forward from the beginning we have made. Let us continue to bring down the walls of hostility which have divided the world for too long, and to build

To get the number of characters, words and sentences, firstly all characters, words and sentences were extracted, using `.raw`, `.words` and `.sents` function and then the length of those character, words and sentences were calculated. The results are as follows:

President's Name	Number of characters	Number of words	Number of sentences
Roosevelt	7571	1536	68
Kennedy	7618	1546	52
Nixon	9991	2048	69

1.2 Remove all the stopwords from all three speeches.

Before removing the stop words and cleaning the text, we will convert the whole text into dataframe since it will be easier to implement python functions to clean data. To convert text into dataframes:

1. The text is split line by line to convert it into a list
2. Then it is stored in a new dataframe using `pd.DataFrame` function. Following are the dataframes that we get.

Image 4: Dataframes of Roosevelt, Kennedy and Nixon's speech, respectively

After converting the speech into dataframes, following steps are taken to clean the text data-

1. All the punctuation and exceptional strings or symbols are removed using 'replace' function.
2. Then all the words were converted into lower case. This will help in uniform recognition of same words.
3. The words are stemmed using Porter Stemmer. Stemming helps to convert all words into root words, helping to group the similar words to its origin, the root word.
4. Then we extract each word and make a series list out of it by first splitting the rows into words and then joining them with a space between them. This is stored in a new dataframe.
5. From here we can count to see the most common words.

6. To remove the stop words, 'stop word' corpus for English Language and punctuations are removed
7. Then frequency of cleaned text is counted again. The useless words, which do not contribute to the meaning of speech is removed again from the speech text and the words are recounted. The cleaned speech text looks as follows:

President	Cleaned Speech text
Roosevelt	'on each national day inauguration since 1789 people have renewed the se dedication united states'
Kennedy	'vice president johnson mr speaker mr chief justice president eisenhower vice president nixon president truman reverend clergy fellow citizens we observe today not a victory of party but a celebration of freedom symbolizing an end as well as a beginning signifying renewal as well as change for i have sworn i before you and almighty god the same solemn oath our forebears prescribed nearly a century and three quarters ago'

Table 3: Number of words, Characters and sentences after cleaning the text

1.3 Which word occurs the most number of times in his inaugural address for each president? Mention the top three words. (after removing the stop words)

The top three words of each president after removing the stopwords are as follows:

From the word cloud it seems that words in Roosevelt's speech are, 'Nation', 'Spirit', 'people', 'life' and 'democracy'.

Image 7: Kennedy's Speech Word Cloud

From the word cloud it seems that words in Kennedy's speech are, 'us', 'world', 'new', 'power' and 'sides'.
